Dear Doug:

In reply to the reference letter with respect to the over-shipment and consequent overbilling of twelve items 156.3. We did overship and bill you for the overshipment. Our people are instructed not to ship in excess of the Spare Parts Exhibit, and on most items there are no extra parts, consequently no overshipments and no problem for you and me, but once in a while, as in this instance, a surplus exists, and all are shipped.

This is the second letter you have written me on the same subject, but different items. Your other letter, DPS-1750 I replied to in my letter dated 28 August, 1958 which probably crossed letter #DPS-3790 in the mail. My reply to that letter would appear to cover this situation also, however, to avoid any problem as to who will do what, I will cancel the $90.72 for the 12 excess parts shipped.

With respect to the other items on Shipper G-B-SP-1507, part numbers 1425A, 1411H, and 96764. These items are not on the Spares Exhibit, also, you were not billed for them. In our desire for as strict accountability as is practicable, we may have become overzealous. The object of this shipper was to tell you where these particular items were since they are charged to the Contract but are not in our possession. They will never be billed for as such, but only as part of the redetermined Contract Price.

Please note writing at bottom of shipper G-B-SP-1507, which attempts to explain the object of the shipper.

I trust the foregoing satisfactorily handles the matter covered in the reference letter.

Yours very truly,

Hal
